IS IT TIME TO "HUNKER DOWN"?

As a big sports enthusiast, I like to draw life lessons from my sports experience. It has been demonstrated that teams play better in front of the home crowd. This can be attributed to roars when the home team makes a great play or the school fight song that inspires a positive atmosphere or maybe it comes from the catchy slogans that are shouted in unison. One of my favorite slogans comes from the University of Georgia Bulldogs. When things are not going right for the home team or the defense needs extra encouragement, the fans yell "Hunker down you hairy dawgs". This phrase seems to inspire the Bulldogs to fight harder.

We see many people "hunkering down" in these challenging economic times —people are delaying money spent on cars, houses, and discretionary items. In times of uncertainty, this seems to be a wise practice for individuals and families. However, there are consequences to "hunkering down". We spend less, and the economy continues to diminish, and we continue to spend less. As painful as it may be to those who have lost jobs or had income cut, this economy has a silver lining for cities. Cities have seen the cost of construction for roads and buildings fall significantly. What would cost a city $100 a year ago costs about $60 today. If a person has money, this appears to be the time to buy. The same is true for a city —if a city has money, now is the time to do road projects, build parks or build other facilities. Hunkering down is the natural reaction to the present economic conditions, but it may not be the wisest course.

Because of the favorable construction climate, low interest rates and pressing road needs, I have recommended to the City Council that they consider borrowing money for the purpose of building new roads and improving other roads that are in need of improvement. Roads do not deteriorate on a straight line basis. Road life can be prolonged by proper drainage, overlays, and crack-sealing but at some point a road simply wears out and has to be rebuilt. This is especially true when the road width is no longer sufficient to handle the traffic volume. Highland City has been fortunate in that many of its roads have been rebuilt by developers as part of their project adjacent to a road, but some of our older roads have not seen much new development. One of these roads is 6000 West. 6000 West is an important transportation route because it is only 1 of 3 roads that has a direct connection with our neighboring cities on the north and south (the other two roads are Alpine Highway and 4800 West).

If the City Council approves borrowing this money, I will be recommending the funds be used to fix 6000 West; and to match Utah County funds to build an east/west connector (which for lack of a better name is called the Murdock Connector). This road will provide a much needed transportation link from the west part of Highland to 4800 West called the North County Blvd. The North County Blvd will have a direct connection to I-15 and SR-92. This connection will make southbound travel much more convenient and avoid the congestion of 100 East and State Street in American Fork. It is hoped that there will be enough funds to complete the road from 6800 West to 4800 West and to rebuild 6000 West.

It is unlikely that such an opportunity will come again soon. The County has committed to provide ½ the funds to build the Murdock Connector from the Alpine Highway to 4800 West (a match of up to $4 million).

The match money the city would need to come up with could come from the proposed bonds.

Finally, I would like to briefly explain the revenue source that will be used to pay for this borrowed money (road bonds). The city receives money from the State of Utah known as B&C Road funds which is allocated based on total miles of roads in the city and population. Our current annual allocation for these funds is about $500,000. We can use a large portion of these funds for the payment of annual principal and interest on debt issued for the purpose of building and maintaining roads. This is a stable revenue source that sees very little annual fluctuation. These bonds would not take money away from Police, Fire or any other General Fund activity of the city. There is no tax or rate increase proposed to fund these projects. A public hearing will be held before these bonds can be issued, and I would urge each of you to come and participate in the discussion about the future of our roads and our transportation system, and why it is not time to "hunker down".
